General Subject No.51 of the D.R.A. (1903).

a) Suits, for instance, of small sums of ₹20, are dragged on by frequent adjournments to the cost of plantiffs and defendants. Some arrangement should be made for their speedy disposal.

b) Suits filed in Civil Courts are not disposed of soon and are allowed to drag on for 4 or 5 years. This causes unnecessary inconvenience and expense to parties. Civil Courts may be enjoined to dispose of them soon.

To

B. K. Venkata Varada Iyengar, Esquire,
Secretary to the Govt of Mysore,
Gen: and Rev: Departments.

Sir,

With reference to your No. 2181 J of the 15th April 1904, inviting attention to General Subject No 51 of the Dasra Representative Assembly 1903, I am directed to state that the Judges agree with the 'Remarks' of the late Chief Judge, copied on the margin.

I have the honor to be,
Sir,
your most obedient Servant,

A Raja Rathnam
Registrar.

No 51.

The question has been occupying the attention of the Judges - Quarterly statements are carefully scrutinized and records of cases brought before us on appeal or on revision are perused with the view to decide whether litigation was needlessly protracted. Criticisms passed in particular cases and frequent inspections of subordinate Courts may operate to remove the causes of complaint. The Courts in five Districts were inspected last year and all the Courts will be inspected this year at an early date. No useful purpose will be served by issuing general injunctions to Courts to avoid delay.
